Oahu Hurricane Evacuation Shelter List

October 22, 2019

Not every hurricane evacuation shelter on this list will be opened during an emergency. Depending on the circumstances, we may use facilities other than those listed here. Specific shelter locations and opening times will be determined based on the situation and will be broadcast over local media and official social media sites.

While hurricane evacuation shelters offer some protection from high winds, flying debris, storm surge and flooding they are intended to be a last resort option for residents and visitors without safer options to use, at their own risk. In almost all cases, the identified hurricane evacuation shelters HAVE NOT been designed or hardened for winds greater than a tropical storm. These shelters are, however, a safer option than remaining in areas prone to flooding or storm surge inundation, on exposed ridge lines or in older homes with wood frames or single wall construction. Whenever possible, the public should plan to Shelter-in-Place or with family or friends in homes outside of these hazard areas; that were designed, built or renovated to better withstand hurricane conditions. Based upon changes to building code, Oahu homes with plans dated 1994 or later and built 1995 or later should have additional protective measures in place.

Homeowners are also encouraged to retrofit their homes to make them more resistant and safer for sheltering. A recommended reference is the Homeowner's Handbook to Prepare for Natural Hazards produced by the University of Hawai'i Sea Grant College Program (Hawai'i Sea Grant).

Hurricane evacuation shelters are not stocked with supplies. If you choose to relocate to a hurricane evacuation shelter you must bring with you as much of your 14-Day Disaster Supply Kit of food, water, clothing, medications, personal hygiene supplies as well as a mat or cot for sleeping on. Depending on the number of evacuees at the shelters, you may have 10-square feet per person or less. If you bring pets with you, you will need to provide a crate or carrier of appropriate size for each pet. You will also need to bring as much of your 14-day supply of pet food and other essential items, as well as cleaning supplies.
