

A man in a blue hoodie and jeans is sitting on a sidewalk, leaning against a grey wall. He is looking off to the side with a thoughtful expression. The background is a blurred city street with people walking and cars. A red stroller is visible in the distance. The scene is lit with soft, natural light, suggesting dusk or dawn.

Becoming Built for Zero:

Lessons from the Future

Becoming Built for Zero

Lessons from the Future

Rockford, IL

Gulf Coast, MS

Let data shape the path forward

Build real collaborative partnerships
across sectors

Be willing to remake ourselves to achieve the next stage of progress

Change is hard and messy. And that's what progress feels like.

Continuously build commitments to end homelessness and cultivate a belief that it is possible

Let data shape the path forward

Focus on chronic veterans

Build real collaborative partnerships
across sectors

Mayor's Challenge Team

Be willing to remake ourselves to achieve the next stage of progress

Integration of coordinated entry and VA-funded programs

Change is hard and messy. And that's what progress feels like.

Work to align data systems

Continuously build commitments to end homelessness and cultivate a belief that it is possible

Regularly reviewing progress towards functional zero

2020 Veterans (According to By Name List)

Stay grounded in improving the lives of people for the better

thank you