COUNCIL MEMBERS WOULD REJECT PAY RAISES

Honolulu City Council Chairman Ikaika Anderson, Council Vice Chair Ann Kobayashi and Council Floor Leader Carol Fukunaga sent a letter today to the Honolulu Salary Commission, requesting that its chairman and commissioners not recommend any pay increases:

“We realize that the Salary Commission began deliberations before the COVID-19 pandemic, which now plagues the global community. But in light of our present situation, the Honolulu City Council will very likely reject all pay increase recommendations of any amount for City and County elected officials and department heads. Please consider our sentiments, expressed here, when you and your colleagues determine your final recommendations.”
